

SELF-CARE CHECKLIST

In order to emotionally sustain yourself through difficult changes, you want to have a strong personal foundation by practicing good self-care. Your effectiveness will decrease with sleep deprivation, poor nutrition, noise pollution, personal conflicts, financial concerns, and a shortage of time to spend with your friends. When you are low on energy by late morning at work, heed the signals. Eliminating or releasing your energy drains will increase the reserves of your most precious resources—your time, your stamina and your desire to be a great leader, coach, teacher, parent or friend. Completing the following exercise will help
